goal of 50% of our 100-person staff to be LEED certified by the end of 2010. As a founding sponsor, we felt it was important to support this vital organization as we push forward in our mission of sustainable design for our clients.”

Why should I support the RI Green Building Council?

The RIGBC depends on the generosity of businesses, institutions, organizations and individuals who recognize the importance of our mission to transform the built environment, reduce harmful greenhouse gas emissions from buildings and accelerate education and training to spur the emerging green economy. USGBC and RIGBC member dues, individual/organizational contributions and corporate sponsorships are the Chapter's principal sources of revenue.

“The future of construction demands greatly advanced building science and energy efficiency in buildings. Through our partnership with the RIGBC, we can learn to improve the supply chain for our customers by providing durable, sustainable green products, or risk falling behind those in the industry who understand what is needed and expected.”

Steven Linsky, Green Coordinator for National Building Products. Virtual Green Marketplace Advertiser

“We are excited to support the efforts of the RIGBC.

Getting our information resources on sustainable design into the hands of Chapter members leverages the missions of both organizations. We value our partnership with the Chapter, understanding that only together can we change our world.”

Jerelyn Wilson, Outreach Director, BuildingGreen, LLC. Virtual Green Marketplace Advertiser & Event Sponsor

“Green should not be just about doing the right thing everyday. It's really a major change in our collective business mindset/approach that we must adopt NOW in order to avoid thoughtlessly wasting precious resources that should be thoughtfully managed for future generations.”

Mark J. Hanchar, Director of Preconstruction Services, Gilbane Building Company. Individual Sponsor
